

By the Kansas State Historical Society

Building a Frame House

Railroads brought lumber to people living on the prairie.
Settlers used the lumber to build frame houses.
Frame houses are the most like our homes today.
Frame houses can be big.
They can have more than one room.
These are the type of houses built in towns and cities.

